

Contributors

OLIVIA M. HABANA is instructor at the Department of History at the Ateneo de Manila University. Her major research interest is the regional economic history of the Philippines. She has an M.A. in History from the Ateneo de Manila and an M.A. in Development Studies from Ohio University.

JOHN N. SCHUMACHER, S.J. is professor of history in the Loyola School of Theology, Ateneo de Manila University. In addition to several books on Philippine church history, he has written major works on nineteenth-century Filipino nationalism.

STEPHEN HENRY S. TOTANES is assistant professor in the Department of History, Ateneo de Manila University. He recently completed a Ph.D. dissertation written in Filipino on "The Changing Nature of the Principalia During the American Period: Kabikolan, 1900–1946," at the University of the Philippines.

VICTOR S. VENIDA is an associate professor in the Economics Department, Ateneo de Manila University.

FERNANDO N. ZIALCITA is professor in the Sociology-Anthropology Department of Ateneo de Manila University.