

Contributors

MA. LUISA AGUILAR-CARIÑO is presently in Chicago pursuing a doctorate in creative writing at the University of Illinois. She is a recipient of several Palanca Awards and a National Book Award for her poems and short stories.

MERCEDES B. CONCEPCION is a professor at the University of the Philippines in Diliman. She was dean of the university's Population Institute and is a member of Pope Paul VI's Pontifical Commission for the Study of the Family, Natality, and Population.

JOSEPH A. GALDON, S.J., editor-in-chief of this review, is a professor in the Department of English at the Ateneo de Manila University. He obtained his Ph.D. in English and Comparative Literature from Columbia University.

FLORENTINO H. HORNEADO, associate editor of this review, is a professor in the Ateneo de Manila University's Department of Filipino. He obtained his Ph.D. in Literature and pursued doctoral studies in history at the University of Santo Tomas.

NORMA N. LUA teaches English and comparative literature at the University of the Philippines College of Baguio. She received her Ph.D. in Literature from the Ateneo de Manila University.

DOLORES DE MANUEL is presently based in New York where she teaches in the English and World Literature Department of Manhattan College.

FELICITAS S. SONTOT lives in Glan, South Cotabato where she teaches at the Glan Elementary School. Focusing her studies on teaching in a pluralistic society, she received her M.A. in Education from the Notre Dame of Marbel College in Mindanao.